Reminders & Updates

BOOST Leadership Transition

Jed Dews

Kinyatta Trice

It is with excitement and sadness that we announce that Jed Dews has accepted a new role as Executive Director at HALOS, a child welfare organization focused on supporting kinship caregivers located in Charleston, South Carolina. His last day with GSAN will be Friday, April 14th. GSAN's leadership has been working on this transition for over 6 months, and is pleased to share that Kinyatta Trice will step seamlessly into the Associate Director role on April 17th. Kinyatta joined the team with this transition in mind and has spent the last 4 months shadowing and preparing herself to lead BOOST. The BOOST grants program, which itself is an incredible testament to the power of partnership, remains a leading priority for GSAN, which is why we've been so intentional in ensuring that leadership continues uninterrupted. Kinyatta has an established working relationship with many of you already, and that will continue uninterrupted.

"Being a part of this unique partnership has been a privilege," says Jed. "I've witnessed the private and public sectors coming together to invest in Georgia's young people with innovative new approaches, and the potential impact for positive change is staggering. Best of all, I've met 104 youth-serving organizations that inspire me daily in their determination and commitment to improving young lives. I am grateful for each of you!"

Please join us in congratulating Jed on his amazing new opportunity and welcoming Kinyatta to her new role as Associate Director!
